Moora Moora Sustainable Living Festival Saturday March 1st 2008

Exhibitors and stallholders are invited to apply for space at this festival with a sustainable living focus. The Moora Moora Festival, with its 30-year pedigree of bringing alternative social and ecological lifestyle choices to the Australian public, will again be held on Mount Toolebewong, near Healesville, 80 miles from Melbourne.

Run in collaboration with The Sustainable Living Foundation (SLF), the festival promises to attract those already committed to low-impact living and farming, many of whom travel from interstate. It is also a popular family day out for large numbers of the general public particularly from the eastern suburbs of Melbourne. Moora Moora is an intentional community established in 1974 and the most popular activity at festivals is always the tours of environmentally sound housing, solar and wind powered energy systems, organic gardens and community supported agriculture, many of which are working exhibits of products displayed in the market area. That market area will also offer quality crafts, alternative health services and food. Gate numbers have consistently been between one and two thousand and are expected to be high this year due to SLF promotion. Visitors generally stay all day attending workshops and enjoying the art exhibition, live music and children's entertainments. There is limited camping available on application and the following day there will be a Walk Against Warming culminating in a reception in Healesville.

Stall and exhibitor space will measure about 4m by 4m, unless otherwise negotiated, located on lawn areas alongside the community buildings and workshop areas, with spectacular views from the mountain across the city. No power or trestle tables will be supplied unless otherwise negotiated. Applicants would be expected to set up between 8 and 10am on the day, removing vehicles to nearby parking, and not to pack up before 5pm. Payment is expected in advance, either with application (returnable) or upon acceptance and invoice. On-the-day payment may be negotiated by small businesses.
